MANY SEEK FACTS AT GAZETTE BUREAU

Flooding to the old theory that there's nothing really new on earth, the Janesville Daily Gazette Information bureau has in the past week answered the following questions sent in by the patrons of the Gazette:

Just why did President Wilson veto the Volstead bill for war time prohibition? "Can you tell me if the Regal can be still made, and its monthly rates 25 cents. A public hearing, open to all interested in the proposed bill, will be held before the commission in the capitol building, at 10 a. m. March 11, C. D. Chevreton, secretary, announces.

The petition was filed by L. F. Silverthorn, secretary of the phone corporation, who mentions as representative subscribers whose rates would be affected: William Dixon, C. V. O'Brien, J. K. Bernis, A. A. Long, W. D. Dougherty, John K. Fisher, L. Henn, F. R. Lowry, and C. H. Whitmore.

Any 25-cent monthly rate increase would mean the following new schedule: One-party, business, $1.75 per month; two-party, business, $3.00; one-party, residence, $1.50; two-party, residence, $2.25; rural phone, $1.50. No change is asked in the cost of extension phone, 25 cents.

In addition the corporation petitions that money be paid quarterly in advance, with a penalty of 25 cents if not paid by the end of the quarter as a substitute for the present provision—penalty of 25 cents for failure to pay within 30 days after end of each quarter.

Further changes requested are: A charge of 5 cents for local calls from the office, a charge of 10 cents to extend five minutes; a charge of from $1 to $3 (according to distance traveled and amount of material required, for moving a telephone from one location to another, re-connections made within one year from discontinuance of service to be considered as done at no charge; and a charge of $2.50 to be made for re-establishment of service when same has been discontinued on account of non-payment of bills.

MEMORIES OF OLD JANESVILLE REVIVED

What does former resident of Janesville think about when reading the Gazette now, for the first time since leaving here Oct. 1, 1887?

W. H. Durst, Center Hall, Pa., in a recent letter says he recognizes only the names of two firms, J. M. Bostwick and Sons and R. M. Bostwick, in reading the old Gazette. He says if the murderer or gang who killed Mr. and Mrs. Henry Search, were ever located, explaining that on the morning of the murder which took place in July, 1887 he with friends visited the Search farm on the Afton road.

Any progress of the street car system would be of interest to Mr. Durst, who says that in 1886 he assisted in laying the tracks for the cars.

THE OTHER FELLOW.

When it is always ourselves and never "the other fellow" in our relations with our fellow beings there is something wrong with our human and ethical consciousness. We have slipped a cog somewhere on the backstretch of our existence that has already or will at some time in the future, affect disastrously our own happiness and welfare.

True, this is particularly the age of a certain sort of individualism that has become an obsession among teachers of philosophy and opportunity. We are swamped with a doctrine that we must confine our undivided attention to ourselves, what we are, what we possess and what we hope to be.

From a utilitarian standpoint and as a mere matter of personal success, this doctrine may be all right, but the trouble is in application of the law. If we pursue the doctrine to its ultimate meaning, and withdraw all our thought, sympathies and help from the people who surround us, we wreck our own craft and in no small degree defeat the object of life itself. Utter selfishness is a form of individualism that destroys all chances of accomplishing the purposes for which it is practiced.

The truth is, absorption in self to the exclusion of others is a crime, involving both petty offenses of rudeness, snobbishness and bad breeding, and cruel and heartless invasions of the happiness and prosperity of others.

"No man liveth unto himself," and to try to do this in an extreme way is to knock the props from under the entire structure of human society.

CANADA'S METHOD.

Canada's method of selecting immigrants that will be admitted to the dominion is so much in contrast to the plan we have heretofore pursued that it is well worth attention. While we have taken a slight step in getting rid of undesirable by deportation, Canada has adopted a policy that will prevent them from coming into the country. The dominion has placed a ban on immigrants from southern and eastern Europe and will admit only those from the British Isles, France, Belgium and Scandinavia. Not only are limits of exclusion set, but agents of the Canadian government in countries open to emigration pass on those who will be admitted. Thus the immigrant going to Canada runs no risk of rejection. This is certainly a more considerate method than ours in turning them back after they have reached Ellis Island.

And in making investigation of the character of the prospective immigrant the government is insured against the anarchist and the criminal. Unless the candidate can present a clean bill of character he will not be approved by the government commissioner. This is certainly a wiser plan than to admit practically all who seek admission and then later be compelled to take up the job of deporting those who betray the welcome given them.

In immigrants quality alone should be considered.

GERMANS TRIED BY GERMANS.

Allied acceptance of German proposals that offend against international law and humanity shall be tried at Leipzig strengthens the position of the associated powers and puts to rest the manifold Teuton declarations of sincere desire to do justice to the war guilty. It may prove to be a happy solution of a delicate situation. At best it cannot prejudice the case of the allies, leaving them freedom of action to renew their demands for extradition should Germany fail to conduct the trials in good faith.

The new plan avoids many criticisms directed at the proposal for extradition. It eliminates possibility of the German war lords being glorified in martyrdom. It pledges the honesty of purpose of the allies directly to the German people and exacts from them in return a pledge of good faith. It will make less certainty for bitterness of feeling. In effect, it is made plain to the Germans that the allies desire to prosecute, not persecute.

Not too much should be expected from the courts sitting at Leipzig, however. Germany, the judge, is also Germany the defendant. But if the Germans are wise they will make an earnest effort to administer justice upon hearing the evidence that the allies have to submit. It is the new republic's opportunity to prove her conversion from militarism. Whether she is courageous enough to seize the opportunity is another question.

At any rate, it is not reasonable to believe that any effort on her part to make a farce out of these trials will be countenanced for a day.

THE TURK REMAINS.

While Turkey is far from America, there will be regret that the supreme allied council has reached an agreement to permit the sultan to remain in Constantinople. The Turk has no proper place in Europe, and the present situation would seem to have offered the opportunity for banishing him from a continent where he has never been aught but a plague.

While the sultan will be robbed of power and the allies will exercise control over the Dardanelles, the ancient city will remain the Turkish capital. Though deprived of an army he may not be robbed of massacre, the chief weapon of offense against those he wishes

IF I COULD LIVE IT OVER.

If I could live it over, live the days and weeks and years,
And know the self-same laughter and the self-same time of tears,
If life should bid me venture for a second time on earth,
I'd want the self-same children gathered round the self-same hearth.

There are things I'd try to better, there are deeds I'd never do,
I'd keep the happier highways where abide the friendships true;
I'd make the most of laughter and the joys that came my way,
But I'd want the self-same children at the ending of the day.

If I could live it over, I believe, with what I know,
I could write my life in service and do better here below;
I should hunger less for glory and the empty pomp of fame,
But I'd want the wife and children and my friends to be the same.

I could change my way of living, I could start my self anew,
And I fancy I could master what this time I've failed to do;
Oh, I know that I'd be different and avoid the faults which mar,
But I think I'd want my loved ones just about the way they are.

to be rid of. The nation has long been such only in name, but though bankrupt and steeped in fanaticism and superstition, it has been permitted to survive because of the jealousy of powers. It is true that it is proposed to remove the Armenians from under the sway of the Turks, but even that would not seem to obviate the desirability of removing the Ottoman power far into Asia.

For the crimes Turkey has committed the greater nations of Europe are in a degree culpable, because for too long they permitted the empire to remain. "Turkey has always had a large Christian population and it has been the source of the trouble. Though Moslem intolerance and fanaticism had made every possible effort from time to time to exterminate this element, Christian Europe sat supinely by and allowed the slaughter to go on. As though that was not enough it appears that the Turk is to escape the full measure of just punishment by being permitted to retain his European capital instead of being deported far enough into Asia to remove him as a scourge to civilization.

No Place for Girls

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN, Director

Janesville Daily Gazette Information Bureau,
Washington, D. C.

New York, Feb. 20.—One of the most difficult things to do in New York this year is to live. This is due not so much to the inferior quality of the living conditions offered at superior prices, but to the hopeless scarcity of them.

There is plenty of work to be had. The want-ads of the applicants are they lure thousands of ambitious persons to the city every month, but after they are here only the fittest survive the terrible struggle for accommodations. Out of a hundred milliners who came here recently to work during the spring millinery season, for example, only 22 remained, the other 48 promptly shaking the dust of the metropolis from their feet, because, they asserted, they simply could not afford to reside here.

The struggle is not quite so tense for men as it is for women, because men can live where women can't including not only respectable neighborhoods, but men's clubs, hotels, studio houses and fraternity houses, of great variety and expense. Moreover, most New York landlords share the world's general partiality toward the male sex, extending their hospitality to him, while the supply of rooms for "refined gentlemen" advertised in the foreign columns apparently even exceeds all available space.

Lone Woman Has Sad Time.
But the lone woman attempting to cut down in New York has a sad time of it. The role of the registry bureau of the central board of the Y. W. C. A. here, which is devoted entirely to securing rooms for the needy, is to receive a call outside the office of the bureau, do, too. Here, every day, 10 o'clock in the morning, until 10 o'clock in the evening, a crowd of patient, weary women waiting to be helped to find places to live.

"If this bureau can't find something for me, I will have to go back home," a young art student confided to the other applicant seated on the sofa beside her the other day. "I have spent three whole days looking for rooms when I should have been going to school. The last place I went to was a vulgar rooming house. I was told that I could rent me the room because I admitted that sometimes I stayed at home in the afternoon. Everybody had to be out of the house at 5 o'clock in the morning," she said, "must be out all day, and she preferred them to be out in the evening, also. I asked her to let me stay there, but she said to live, but she replied coldly that those were her rules, and closed the door."

During 1919 nearly 20,000 girls applied to the rooming bureau for assistance in locating rooms, which represented an increase of 64 percent over the number applying during 1918. The number who were placed in rooms was 12,000. The bureau has three Y. W. C. A. houses, girls' clubs and a list of nearly a thousand private rooming houses to draw from. It has a large staff of paid and volunteer workers constantly searching for and investigating new houses, it has a list of 100,000 names of persons who have a large staff of paid and volunteer workers constantly searching for and investigating new houses, it has a list of 100,000 names of persons who have a large staff of paid and volunteer workers constantly searching for and investigating new houses.

Couldn't Pay Price.
"We attribute to the fact that most of the applicants could not afford to pay the prices of the rooms," said Miss Ethel Hanks, director of the bureau, "that the girls are just about twice as expensive as they were two years ago. In 1916 the average price of a room in New York was $4 a week; now it is $12 a week. But there are not nearly enough rooms at $12 a week available. Many girls are renting rooms at $15 and $18 a week, because they feel that they must maintain their standard of living. They are being cut down on food and other essentials in order to do it."

When the applicant reaches the bureau, which is on the second floor of the Y. W. C. A. building at Fifty-third and Lexington avenue, she is given a brass check bearing a number and told to wait until the number is called, as there are usually from one to a dozen applicants ahead of her. Then she is taken to the often long and tedious, since each girl must be extensively interviewed by an officer of the bureau before her request is placed on the list. This may account for one woman's misinterpretation of the bureau's sign placed conspicuously on the wall to guide strangers: "Get a check and wait your turn. Yellow, check, one green, one red, one blue, one pink, one white. The different colors are for separate permanent dwellers from transients, but the other day, after waiting a considerable length of time, a middle-aged woman approached an officer of the bureau with a distressed look on her face and said, "Now does this sign mean that I must wait a week before you can give me a room?"

All Rooms Investigated.
Part of the bureau's staff is always out on what is called "field work"—that is, the investigation of various houses reporting rooms for rent to the bureau. Thus, when the bureau tells a girl it can give her a room at $12 a week, it knows exactly what that room contains, even to the wall paper and the number of lighting fixtures; which is fortunate, because some of the applicants are fastidious. In their requirements. One stenographer who came to the bureau with definite ideas as to what she wanted for the price she could afford to pay, was served by six different interviewers, and inspected 45 different rooms before she announced herself satisfied.

In addition to its room-renting service, the bureau acts as a court of appeal for women who have been turned down by landlords and their boards, attempting to adjust many difficulties which are constantly arising between the two factions. Sometimes it is a boarder who protests that her room is cold, and again it is a landlady who claims that her boarders are using too much gas and electricity. Miss Hanks has also recently started a sort of housekeepers' club, which meets once a month at the Y. W. C. A. headquarters, for the purpose of acquainting landladies with the latest facilities for house-keeping and with advice as to renting rooms. Columbia university is co-operating with the bureau in supplying lecturers on house furnishings and interior decorating, while the Y. W. C. A. has been urged to give the meetings a friendly, informal atmosphere by serving tea and coffee.

As a result of these meetings, the bureau notices a slight improvement in the relations of the boarders and housekeepers on their lists. Many of the women who have been turned down by landlords are now exhibiting a personal interest in the girls boarding in their homes, and actually to help them reduce expenses. The bureau has also been dry and kitchen facilities. The old type of landlady who spent her days inspecting key holes in the fear of her boarders, has been replaced by a more friendly landlady appearing under the friendly administration of the bureau.

Not long ago, for example, a landlady appeared and handed $50 in bills to the officer in charge. "This belongs to the last little old woman you sent me," she explained. "She left it in the desk drawer of her room, although she had been told to take it. I have since given it to a couple of my lovers."

Investigation proved the old woman was the one who had been on the bureau's list for a number of weeks, during which time she had rented half a dozen different rooms. Every time she came to the bureau she gave a different name. When an officer of the bureau gently called her attention to this fact, she declared that she had no rooming where her last husband's name was, but she thought it was Boyd. Through the information gleaned by the housekeepers, the bureau was able to find the old woman's anxious family as to her whereabouts.

Miss Hanks, who is on only a great deal of time, is particularly proud of this period is particularly proud of some amusing and some tragic. Perhaps she thought it best to tell the city becomes more appalling as night approaches," she says, "and the need to talk things over with someone becomes more urgent."

The other night it was Mary Smith, a cook, who had left her position because of a misunderstanding with her mistress, and had to be supplied a cheap room right away. Mary, who wore a depressed expression, was told by the interviewer in her anger she had placed a curse on her employer, and then discovered that she was leaving the room. "I thought the woman was the mother of Dorothy Arnold, the young girl who was kidnapped a few years ago. She was overcome with remorse and wanted to know if the interviewer could not tell her of a good fortune teller who would be able to make the curse innocent."

Wouldn't Wear Rubbers.
A little later it was a little shop girl who appeared and said she could not remain at the club house recently mentioned to her because of a requirement that she wear rubbers. She had never worn rubbers, she said, and did not intend to. They made her eyes hurt. Would the interviewer please give her the address of a place where she could live without being spied upon when she went out?

Then, a few nights ago, came too plain dressed a girl, who, the interviewer asked if the Y. W. C. A. would find rooms for actresses. They were two sisters, the daughters of a small town clergyman, who were the star of the vaudeville stage doing classical dancing, trying to save enough money to go to college. The reference they gave was a whisper.

"Yes, it's very interesting work," said Miss Hanks in answer to the usual question, "but rather hectic. New York is no place for a girl to live in now."

ing eyes. "It will mean a race and sex war in America."

So you see how serious are the problems on the pink and cream-colored anti-suffrage headquarters.

Manitowoc—Constance Silver, a local business man, was Monday adjudged insane and sent to the northern hospital at Oshkosh for treatment. Her husband, who is ill, thought is temporary, and two deaths in the family from influenza within two weeks have been a severe shock. Shortly afterward was followed by the man's wife. All members of the family are ill with the disease, and it is thought that this coupled with the man's own severe illness wrecked his mind.

Q. How can I obtain the words of "The American Creed" as approved by President Wilson? J. O. H.

A. Here it is: "I believe in the United States of America, as a government of the people, by the people, for the people; whose just powers are derived from the consent of the governed; a democracy in which public a sovereign nation of many sovereign states; a perfect union, one and inseparable; established upon those principles of freedom, equality, justice and humanity, for which American patriots sacrificed their lives and fortunes. I therefore believe it is my duty, to my country, to love it; to support its constitution; to obey its laws; to respect its flag; to defend it against all enemies, foreign and domestic."

How long does it take to call the roll of the house of representatives? M. N.

A. The reading clerk of the house says that he can make a roll call in 25 minutes. There are 435 members of the house, and an eager roll call these names have to be called three times, with clerks checking off on printed lists as the members answer to their names.

Q. Is it true that jewelry is worn as a sign of mourning in South America? J. D. H.

A. Jewelry is worn in most of the South American countries, particularly in Chile and Peru. Mourning jewelry consists of bar pins, neck chains, and hat buttons and earrings. Mourning ear rings of jet have a large sale.

Q. How should some eyes of new born babies be treated? A. L. K.

A. The United States Public Health Service says that inflamed eyes in new born babies should be regarded seriously, and that a capable physician should be summoned promptly. Some eyes in new born babies can be prevented from landing all cases by putting special drops in the baby's eyes immediately after birth. These drops consist of one percent solution of silver nitrate. Many cases of blindness result from neglecting the eyes of new born babies.

LADY PINK TOES HAS HER INNINGS

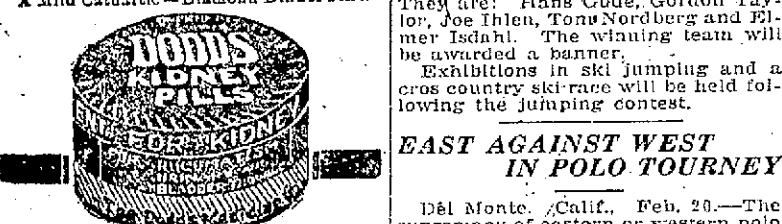

There is no excuse today for women to have ugly, painful corns.

For a few cents you can get a quarter ounce of the magic drug freezone recently discovered by a Cincinnati chemist.

Apply a few drops of this freezone upon a tender, aching corn or callus and instantly, yes, immediately, all soreness disappears and shortly you will find the corn or callus so loose that you lift it out, root and all, with the fingers.

Just think! Not one bit of pain before applying freezone or afterwards. It doesn't even irritate the surrounding skin.

Hard corns, soft corns or corns between the toes, all hardened calluses on bottom of feet, just seem to shrivel up and fall off without hurting a particle. It is almost magical. Advertisement.

MILTON COLLEGE BEATS BELOIT, 21-18

[By Gazette Correspondent] Milton, Feb. 20.—Playing superb basketball from start to finish, Milton College sprang a surprise on Beloit last night, defeating the Lions City five 21 to 18. Although the contest was hard fought throughout, it was remarkably clean and kept the crowd on edge every minute. Beloit's defense was wonderful, but they sacrificed their offense there by the Milton guards breaking up play after play before it was well started. Curtis intercepted a number of passes, engaging two goals from center floor. For Beloit, Paul of Janesville, was the individual defensive star, holding Milton's Charles Lamphere, to one basket which was made in the first five seconds on a pretty play from the tipoff. Randolph was the high scorer for Milton, making three in the first half. Bushey led for Beloit with four rings and played a steady game on the floor. Milton's team work showed improvement over the Carroll game. Oakley and Lamphere were on top of the ball all of the time and their opponents' guessing. Score at half time was 13-11.

Lineups: Beloit (18) Bushey 4, Oakley 4, Wink 2, Randolph 3, Kakuske 1, Curtis 2, Paul 2, Field goals—Lamphere 1, Oakley 2, Randolph 3, Kakuske 1, Curtis 2, Bushey 4, Wink 2, Wilburn 1, Lams 1. Free throws—Lamphere 3, Wilburn 2. Substitution—Schacht for Wilburn. Referee—Vic Hennings, Janesville.

P. S. ENTRIES CLOSE ON MONDAY NIGHT

It is hoped that in making entries, the schools will give the names of their players. It is desired to have both lightweight and heavyweight teams. In sending in the entries, it is asked that the weights of the players be given also so that the teams may be picked.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am twenty years old and have been corresponding for two years with a girl in another town. She is nineteen. I have only been with her a few moments at a time. Her father and step-mother are very strict with her. She has never gone with boys and she says I am the only one she has ever written to.

I have learned to love her very much and she says she loves me. I have tried to plan some way so that I could be with her. Please advise me. W. V. M.

TESTED RECIPES

Chile Con Carne—Have the butcher cut one and one-quarter pounds of shin beef into two-inch blocks. Wipe with a damp cloth and then roll in flour. Now place in a saucepan six tablespoons of fat and when hot add the meat. Brown quickly and add four tablespoons of flour and brown the flour. Now add one quart of water and four onions, minced fine. Cover closely and cook until tender, and then add one can of kidney beans, one cup of stewed tomatoes rubbed through a sieve, one teaspoon of chili powder, one and one-half teaspoons of salt and one teaspoon of paprika.

Serve in a border of mashed potatoes. Rye Muffins—Place in a mixing bowl one and one-half cups of rye flour, one cup of white flour, one-half cup of bran, one-half cup of molasses, one and one-half cups of milk, one teaspoon of salt, four tablespoons of shortening and two level tablespoons of baking powder.

Beat to mix and then turn into well-greased muffin pans and bake in a hot oven for 20 minutes.

Pluffy Ruffles Fritters—Place in a mixing bowl one and one-quarter cups of flour, two teaspoons of baking powder, one-half teaspoon of salt, four tablespoons of shortening, two tablespoons of syrup and two-thirds cup of milk.

Beat to mix and then dip halves of the stewed dried peaches in this batter and fry until golden brown.

Serve with the juice from the stewed fruit.

JUST SUGGESTIONS

Care of Broom—Put a new broom in boiling water up to where it is sewed for a few minutes. Will make the corners soft; will wear better and keep it from breaking.

To Dry a Sweater (especially in bad weather)—A sweater washed in warm water dry over a low willow rocking chair. Rock the chair in front of grate or heater. Shape as nearly as possible with front over the arms of the chair. The shaking while drying is done by the rocking chair; willow is the best for drying, because of the openness of the chair.

young and doubtless not financially ready to marry. With the girl as your incentive, work hard, and save money. Then in a few years you will be well able to take her away from her father and step-mother.

It is unfortunate that the girl is denied the right of having young men friends. She is old enough now.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl nineteen years old and keep company with a married man who has three children. He and his wife have not lived together for four years and he is going to get his divorce in March.

He is now to marry him. He is thirty-five years old. I like him very much, but I like him better for his money as he gives me all I want and I need it to keep my mother and her house.

I have chances to go with other boys, but of course they haven't the money and anyway I would not ask them for it. If this man gives me money and I give it to my mother he is all right, but if I don't, she doesn't like him.

Please advise me what to do. Should I go with this man or go with boys my age and find some one that I can love.

Find someone you can love. I cannot understand your mother's selfishness. She is sacrificing you for the sake of money. Can't you see that taking money from him is selling yourself to him? He is giving it to you because he thinks it will be for you. When he finds that he cannot have you the money will stop.

"Bright Eyes"—It will be all right to accept the middy blouse and the tie.

SAVE THE WRAPPER—VII.

THE TOILET AND SHAVING.

Except for variations in the diameter of the shafts of the hairs all hairs are equally tough. When a man imagines or is told that he has a wiry beard he has a dull razor or he lacks skin oil.

When there is a shortage of skin oil (sebum) the skin is hard and rough, and the shaver frequently cuts himself trying to hack off his "wiry" beard. After the shave he feels sore. The poor fellow is tempted to launch upon a veritable orgy of shopping for shaving soap, fancy razors and soothing skin lotions. All he needs really is a little more skin oil.

Sometimes this shortage of skin oil is due to the skin's prolonged abuse of the skin it may become senile considerably in advance of the rest of the body. Over the years it reads the mistake of purchasing complexionals at the drug store realize the truth of this statement all too early.

It is an amazing common practice for barbers to urse upon customers various highly alcoholic lotions after shaving such as bay rum, witch hazel, various scented toilet waters. The alcoholic lotion destroys or removes considerable skin oil, if the barber has left any in the skin. The effect on the skin is disastrous, ruinous if the habit is kept up regularly.

The more oil there is in a soap, especially a soap used for shaving, the better for the face and the easier the shaving will be. For this reason some soaps which are sugar-fatted and intended merely as toilet soaps, are preferable to others, at least for adults. Youths may find drying soaps appropriate for their excessively oily skin.

A few drops of some neutral or bland oil should be used on the face after shaving and before shaving to render the beard softer and preserve the razor's edge. Any oil will do—cocoa butter, olive oil, sweet almond (sweet oil), liquid petrolatum or soft petrolatum (vaseline), or freshly made cold cream (made up by the druggist on order).

She Married an Average Man

By ZOE BECKLEY.

The little house at Hammonds Corners looked sweet and hospitable as the late afternoon sun coppered the window panes. Yet there seemed something unreal about it; I couldn't tell what. I ran up the path, eager for a friendly word with the housekeeper before Jim got back from the works.

To my surprise, the door stood open. I walked in, turned into the living room and saw a tall, thin woman standing before the fireplace. Without knowing how I got the impression, I felt I had interrupted a scene of sentiment. I did not emotion.

Every woman knows that feeling. You have not seen their lips meet. You have not actually seen them draw apart. Yet somehow you know—

Every wife who has been unable to tell her husband's heart knows the sick, troubled sensation that first attacks the mind and then the body as she faces the first proof that some other woman has succeeded where she failed.

I wanted to shriek and run from the room, out into the cool air, away, anywhere—far, far off into the sunlit, untroubled space. But I couldn't scream or move. I stood there like a statue. Suddenly Jim faced me.

"Why have you come here?" he said in a voice I seemed never to have heard before. "Do you think you can play fast and loose with me like this? Well, you can't. I tell you I am sick and tired of this blow-hot-blow-cold temperament of yours

"Jim! Jim!" I could scarcely make myself heard. Probably Jim didn't hear, for he went right on:

"You've been disrespectful of your home. You've been a trifle. You have been unfaithful. You cannot come back to me."

At this an electric current seemed turned on within me, galvanizing me to speech and action. I seized Jim's shoulders, shaking him in my frenzy as though he were a small boy caught lying to his mother.

"That isn't true; it isn't true and you know it, you know it, you know it, Jim! You've gone mad. You can't know what you're saying!" The tall woman who had been standing on the hearth had gone from the room. I heard a nervous hold-side the door. Voices in a confused murmur, growing louder, coming nearer.

Jim remained silent. Presently there was a harsh knocking at the door. I turned my head in fright. Was that awful woman returning with neighbors and people who would laugh and jeer at me and take Jim away?

"Jim—oh, Jim, Jim. Please listen, Jim!"

I opened my eyes against something black and stifling—Jim's coat. I tried to move, but his arms held me tight. I felt soft pads on my shoulder and strokes on my hair. And from far, far away came Jim's voice.

"My darling, darling girl, whatever happened to you that you should cry out that way in your sleep? What are you doing asleep at this hour anyhow? It's only 7. I'm just from the Grand Central."

"Was away when your letter came. Anyhow, coming up to Albany. Got back to the Corners at noon and caught the first train down. Had a regular reception from the janitor and the elevator boy. Jimmed the door open as soft as I could to give you a surprise. And here you are asleep on the couch, yelling for me or at me or to me like a Comanche squaw!"

"Nice reception, kid; oh, what!"

"Oh, Jim—Jim—I had such a horrible dream!" I gasped, holding my husband with a terrified grip. "Never let me go again! Never let me have my way! Beat me, lock me up, anything—but keep me close to you!"

You insist upon Certified milk for your Kiddies because Certified means Pasteurized.

If pasteurizing milk is absolutely vital, why not be sure that whatever spread you use for bread is also Pasteurized.

DIXIE Margarine is absolutely Pasteurized* in every ingredient. We KNOW. Because we Pasteurize it ourselves.

Every gallon of milk and cream that goes into the making of Dixie Margarine—and we use thousands of gallons daily—is re-clarified and re-pasteurized* by us before it ever goes to our churns. And we do the same with every ingredient.

So that DIXIE is absolutely wholesome, absolutely pure.

If you insist on Pasteurization for your milk, insist on it also for your spread for bread.

DIXIE is also the Margarine with the full butter flavor.

Buy it and try it and see for yourself.

*Ask your Family Physician or find out from your Health Commissioner how absolutely vital to health Pasteurization is. Don't take any neighbor's word for this. It's too important. Ask an expert.

Blues Play Tonight and Tomorrow; Cardinals Tonight

By George McManus.

GO TO EVANSVILLE TODAY; EDGERTON HERE TOMORROW

Janesville high school has two of the hardest playing days of the season before it today and tomorrow. Tonight the Blues team journeys to Evansville to take on the high school of that town; tomorrow Edgerton comes here.

Preparing for this grueling work, Coach Crabtree has had the boys on a week in constant practice. He has been carefully running them through scrimmages, watching closely to see that they did not over-train. He has particularly been keeping tabs on the tendency of the boys to use rough play unnecessarily. A habit they have fallen into while he has been ill.

Locals in Good Form. The local team, according to the management today, is in as good shape as at any time of the year. Hager, who was suffering earlier in the week with a slight relapse in the condition of his arm, which was injured some time ago when he fell down a flight of stairs, is again to go.

Tomorrow's game with Edgerton is attracting by far the greatest amount of attention. The Blues played Evansville in two games, a 10-10 tie last year in two games. This year Edgerton has been winning two-thirds of its games, while Janesville has made an average somewhat higher.

The game here tomorrow will start at 7:30 in the local school gym.

MUCH INTEREST IN DELAVAN MATCHES

(By Staff Correspondent) Delavan, Feb. 20.—Considerable interest is being shown here and vicinity in the wrestling matches to be pulled off by the American Legion next Wednesday night. Ernest Kordie of this town has been matched to meet Young Weekham, also Kid Morrissey and Young Vorpal. The latter two are 14 years of age each.

The bouts will be held in the Opera house.

WESTERN LEAGUE SCHEDULE. Kansas City, Mo.—A 15 game schedule for the 1920 season in the Western league was definitely adopted at a meeting of the league here today. It was announced by A. K. Kearney, president. The schedule will be made public as soon as it is printed and added. The opening and holiday games will be announced later today.

GOTHAM SEAT PRICES UP. New York.—The high cost of living for the baseball fan received another boost today when owners of the New York Giants announced that they had raised the price of seats in a new scale of prices in which the previous season's figures have advanced on all but the highest priced seats.

HAYES TO HENRIERS. Kewanee, Ill.—Leslie Hayes of Kewanee, Ill., last semi-pro player, has signed a contract with the Milwaukee club of the American association.

DEMANDS $10,000. Pittsburgh, Pa.—Wilbur Cooper, pitcher star now in business, has demanded President Drexler he is through with baseball unless he gets a $10,000 salary.

Menasha, Wis.—Menasha will hold down a berth in the Fox River Valley baseball league next summer. The other five cities represented in the league are: Appleton, Kaukauna, Kimberly, Oshkosh and New London. The league season will open May 2. George Hoenig, former member of the Cincinnati National league team, has been elected league president.

Cardinals Score 429 in Dozen Games Against Opponents' 251

In the 12 games played so far this season, the Lakota Cardinals have piled up 429 points against their opponents 251. They have lost only two games, each at a margin of five points. While in one game, that against Fond du Lac, they took a lead of 40 points.

These are only a few of the interesting features of a record just issued of the team's work of this season. Glancing over the individual standings, it appears that the team as it originally stood when it started the season on November 29 was certainly the best possible selection that could have been made. "Eddie" Dermody, Rolfe Williams, "Motsey" Dalton, "Kibo" Brown, and Eddie, the original aggregation, stand at the top of the record for points made.

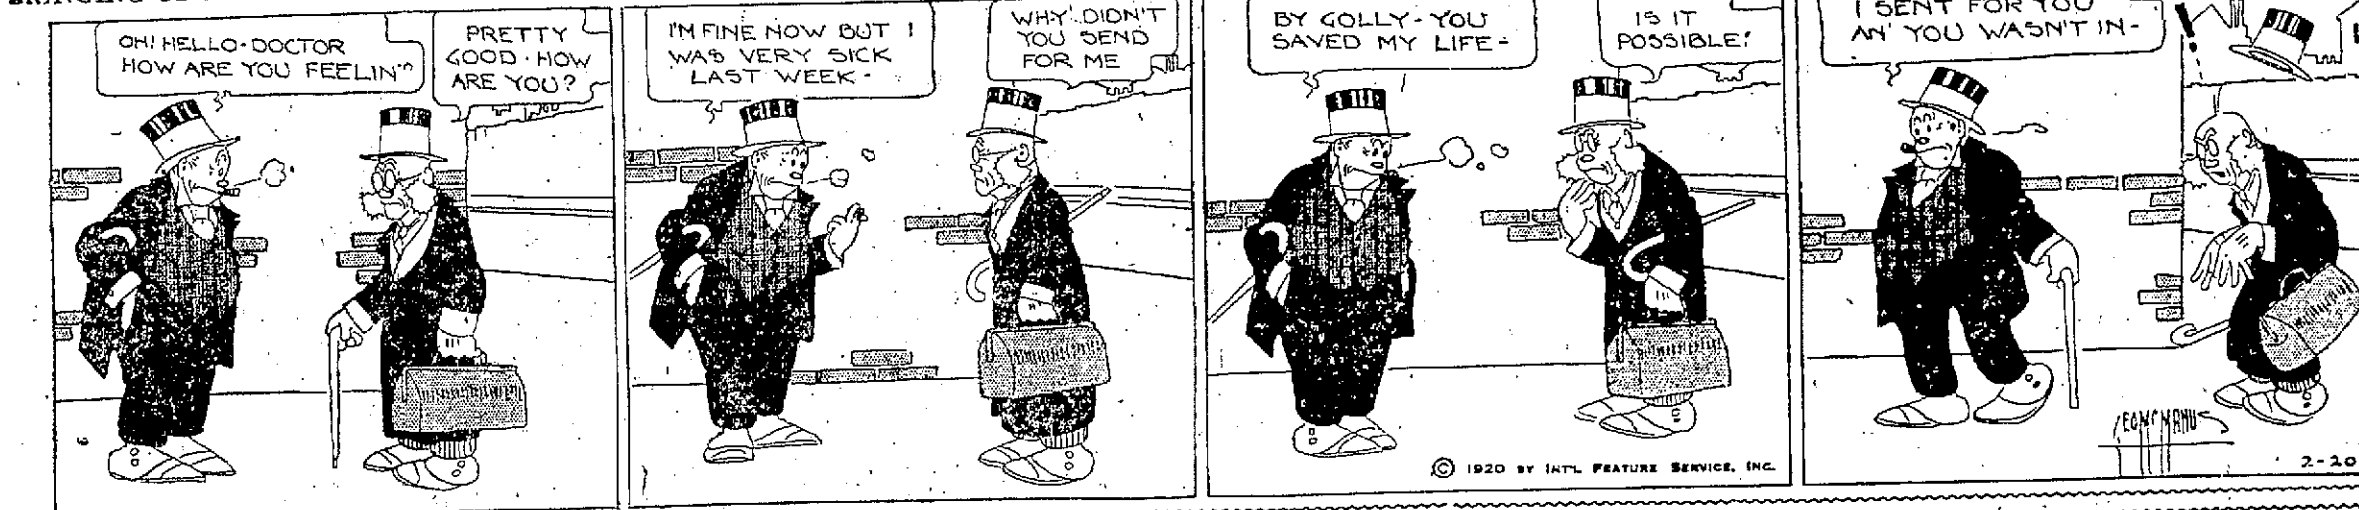

Dermody Leads Field. Dermody has figured in 10 games with a total of 98 points, 72 of them made by 26 field goals and 21 with free throws. Williams, though playing guard, has utilized his whirling pivot to such an extent that he has piled up 56 points in 12 games by shooting 23 baskets. Dalton, also guard, has run up 49 markers with 24 fields and a free throw, and Brown, who in other years seldom made more than one basket a game, has run away with seven on one occasion, and totaled 48 points.

Levis was the sensation of the early games this year. In only three contests he made 53 points, 20 of them in one game. The work of Cassidy, a local boy, who though a trifle too light for the regulars, made 18 points in three games, shows that he is shaping into form and will probably see more games next year.

EVERYMAN'S DIARY. I have given up housebreaking. As an avocation. Because the other night I came home late and my roommate was out. And I remembered that I had lent him my key. But I intended to get in anyhow. We have an apartment janitor. So I knew there was nothing to do. But crawl around to the fire-escape. And get through a window. When I got to my door. Who weren't used to having people on the fire escape. When they were preparing to retire. But I didn't dare hurry. For fear they wouldn't recognize me. And I would yell for the police. And finally I got to my window. And through it. And all I did was tear my coat a little.

And break my glasses. But that isn't why I've quit housebreaking. It's because when I got inside. Someone was hammering on the door. And I went to answer it. And no one was there. And I went out to see who it was. And the door blew shut. And just as I was about to smash it in. My roommate appeared. And he said, Gee, I'm glad you're here. When I gave you back your key this afternoon. I thought you would get home first. And I reached into my pocket and took out the key. And unlocked the door. And said nothing about housebreaking.

Fair and Impartial; True and Sportsmanlike

The following letter has been received from the Fairies relative to the handling of sports by the Gazette:

Mr. Frank Sinclair, Janesville Gazette, Janesville, Wis.

Dear Sir: We are pleased to note your fair and impartial account of the Beloit-Janesville basketball game of Tuesday, February 17th, which appeared in the February 18th issue of the Janesville Gazette. There have been times when we have felt that the Janesville account of Beloit-Janesville contests did not do us justice, but Wednesday's article is a true and sportsmanlike account of a great basketball game between two very evenly matched teams, and we wish to express our appreciation for the article.

Very truly yours, FAIRBANKS-MORSE ATHLETIC ASS'N., D. F. McCarthy, Basketball Manager.

TAKE ON MONROE; PLAY IN CHICAGO ON FEBRUARY 28

The Lakota Cardinals will travel to Monroe, capital of the cheese center of the country, tonight, to see if they can bite holes in the American Legion basketball team of that town. The Legion five has played a series of games numbering about 12 with quintets in this section of the country. Starting their season on New Year's day they did not lose a game until Wednesday night when they dropped to the Freeport (Ill.) Y. M. C. A.

Unfortunately, the Cards will be slightly off their usual style tonight because of the loss temporarily of Rolfe Williams who previously had agreed with Fond du Lac to play a game in the lineup of Fond du Lac's Doughboys.

At "Chi" Next Week. The Cards are getting ready to take the long looked for trip to Chicago next week to play a second game with the Red Crowns Whiting, Ind. Final arrangements for this big contest are now being made. The game probably will be played at the White City rink on the 28th. Several hundred fans from here are planning to take the trip. Just when the next game with the Beloit Fairies will be played is not quite certain. Either March 5 or 6 will be chosen. The Cards want the fans may get more of a chance to see the Lakotas at work. There is a possibility that the contest may be played on a neutral court, possibly Rockford.

High School Boys Basketball Tonight. Playing in the high school, boys basketball league will be resumed at the Y. M. C. A. tonight after a lapse of several weeks due to the recent illness of W. Porter Craig, physical director.
